C. C. PLANNING DINNER FETE FOR NEW WHARF

WIFE SLAYER TO BE BURIED WITH VICTIM HERE FRIDAY

Double funeral services will be held here tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Wilson and Kratzer chapel for Mr. and Mrs. Joaquin Rios, victims of a tragedy which stalked into their home Tuesday morning.

Rios, 40, insanely jealous of his wife, Mrs. Santos Rios, 42, a mother of five children, killed her in their home, 651 Santa Fe avenue following a quarrel and then was slain by a posse of police officers when he resisted arrest and fired upon them.

A double funeral service will be held at the chapel and will be followed by interment in St. Joseph's cemetery where the two bodies will be buried side by side.

Although rumors have been current since the slaying that Rios was actuated in his deed by a letter from a fortune teller that his wife was untrue to him, police were unable to substantiate them. Several friends told authorities that Rios had made hints to them regarding this matter. Police, however, were inclined to doubt the theory. A thorough search has been made of the Rios home and all of the man's personal belongings, but no letters or other data were found which would substantiate the rumor.

The generally accepted theory yesterday was that Rios, suddenly crazed by some fancied wrong or deed, shot his wife while in a demented condition. This belief is borne out by his subsequent actions, and his wild gestures while in his gun fight with police in the Santa Fe hotel.

Authorities and friends are making arrangements to care for the five orphaned children ranging in age from 16 to 2 years.

An inquest into the death of Rios and his wife will be held in the near future according to Coroner Aubrey Wilson.

The new light is only temporarily installed for the purpose of giving petitioners an opportunity to view the standard. Electrical work is being done by the V. G. Electric company.

The lights will be connected together.

The standard will be painted a bronze color and a thin reflecting paint will be used.

The Intelligent Woman's Guide to Marriage

It is a long throw from the question of "The intelligent Man's Guide to Marriage and Danger, Sharp Turn to the Left." Perhaps the most unsatisfactory of husbands for the modern woman is the professional man. Before marriage he may seem a pleasantly virile, gallant and protective personage. But after he has won his wife, he turns overnight into a bully or—what may be even worse—a bore. For he not only seeks to act on the principle that he is master in his own house and that there are things HIS wife may not do—he frequently TALKS his stuff. And, while a wife can usually manage to do as she pleases when her husband isn't there, she can hardly escape listening to him when he IS there!

No Parting Here. Even if she can capture him—and the tuck may be surprisingly easy—no woman should marry Don Juan. There's no special point in having a husband around unless he IS around. Don Juan's historic role is to shift from flower to flower. He may be a charming playmate, if a bit vain and superficial, but it's a waste of time and emotion to try to settle down beside him for life.

Slow, Steep Hill Ahead. The woman who falls in love with a mother's ultra-devoted son had better take time to consider before she marries him. Dr. Frank H. Frazee detected and described the girl who searches almost heartily, to find that she is marrying for any other reason than love. The man who makes her feel that she cannot live without it and its object, should CHANGE HER MIND AND DIRECTION. Let her take any other road than the one leading to the altar!

SOLUTION TO THE SUMMER PROBLEM

I'm going to spend the summer in a marvelous resort. Where there's tennis, swimming, fishing, and most every other sport.

Dances are held there nightly.

There are shows and lectures, too. There is music of the finest—And a thousand things to do.

There are pretty girls aplenty. For the chap who likes 'em nice—And for girls a-hunt for sweeties. It's the place that brings the rice.

While for those who like it quiet—Love to browse among their books. This resort is just the ticket. With its million peaceful looks.

The expense will be quite trifling. You think that that's just talk? Well, it's all as true as gospel—For I'm staying in N.Y.
MARTIN PANZER.

Trust Him to Arrange It!

It is announced that there soon will be regular telephone service between Trans-Alaska and Alaska. An American house, but we suppose a husband can be in conference when his wife calls up the Leviathan or the Mauritania, just as when she calls up the office.

TOLD YOU SO!

Men's summer clothes weigh three times as much as women's. When one contrasts the weight of men's clothing with that of women's, he is bound to be appalled at what men carry about in the way of excess baggage. The average man is grossly overladen—Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk of the Life Extension Institute.

Flaring Lingerie

SUDDENLY every one is beginning to realize that flared lingerie is really beneath the dignity of a woman. Straight line slips and intimate apparel are giving way before 'lante' garments cut with the flare to provide a silhouette of outer wear. Lingerie of this design has a natural beauty for summer frocks. Most of the materials used with freely flaring skirts. With low back tennis dresses all undergarments must be cut with the same back line.

MUSINGS ON MENUS MODERNISTIC

BY NANCY DORRIS

Hot cup cakes and ripe berries or fresh fruits were once a familiar summer dessert. So rarely does it appear on the present-day table that it is hailed as a new and interesting dinner finale.

Owing to the limited working space in the kitchenette, it may be that the modern cook finds mixing and baking cup cakes before dinner out of the question.

But almost any oven will烘焙 previously baked small cakes during the main course.

Familiarity with a tried and true cup cake formula permits the kitchenette cook to extend her time and space by the morning period allotted to advance meal preparation. The baked cup cakes placed in a warm oven (the heat may be turned out) emerge as desirable and dainty as the freshly baked ones of old.

A cup with a flair for cookery has worked out this speedy recipe for

HASTY CUP CAKES

One cup sugar
One and one-half cups flour
Two scant teaspoons baking powder
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One-half cup butter, melted
Three eggs
Half a cup milk
One teaspoon vanilla

Baking time: fifteen minutes in 350 degree oven.

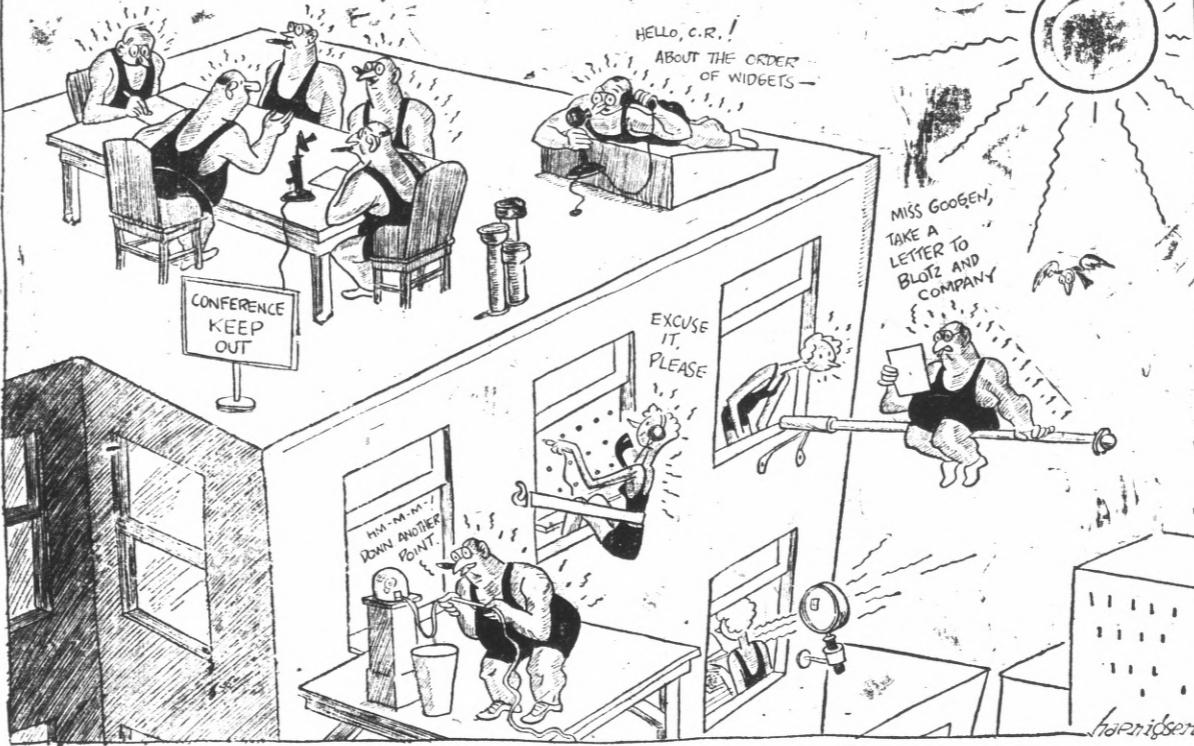

The mixing of the ingredients is beautifully simple, the dry materials being sifted together and stirred into the liquid mass. A word of explanation about the quantity of milk. The butter and eggs are placed in the measuring cup and the cup then filled with milk.

How a Boat House Became Our Canadian Summer Home

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

TO many who count "home" an apartment or house in the crowded city there comes an opportunity to, as we say, pick up a little place in the country, or perhaps at the shore or back in the hills on the brink of a blue lake. And we're often not, if this rustic domain boasts a house it is a sad old architectural wreck or a temporary mak-shift that leaves one wondering how in the name of comfort a livable home can be made of it.

Not so very long ago such an experience came to us. An exquisite patch of Canadian ground, numbered by a boat house as ugly as the man of man could conceive, presented itself as a candidate for our summer home. It was accepted—and so interesting did we find the problem of making beautiful this strange little dwelling that its story deserves to be told.

The lot was a beautiful one, sloping down from the road to a lake some nine miles long. But the boat house was indeed an unpromising specimen in its original state. A low, shambling structure, it nestled against some cedars on the left, with a delicate elm tree whose roots rose out of the lake in the shape of a lyre on the other side. But the house commanded a wonderful view up and down the lake and across to the rolling hills, which in the far distance turned into the hazy tops of the Vermont mountains.

We needed a place for our boats in addition to a home for ourselves. The building was a two-story affair with two rough rooms which could be made into bedrooms on the second floor, and we began to plan how we could turn the lower room into a cottage with a place to run the boats beneath it.

I had spent the previous summer in Sweden and was much impressed with the method there of placing log cabins on huge boulders laid on the ground, instead of cementing them into concrete. In fact, the fact that the stones does not affect those structures because the house goes up and down with the stones. The Canadian winters had caused us so much trouble by wrenching our former summer home from its post and foundation and cracking the wall plaster, that we determined the stones were the thing for this one.

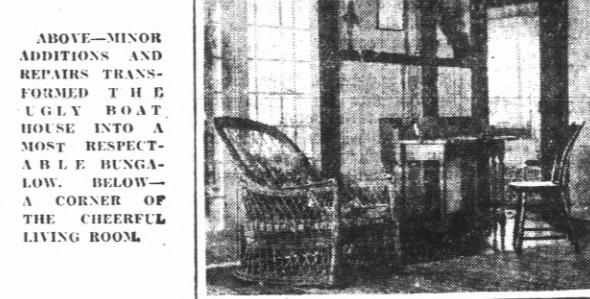

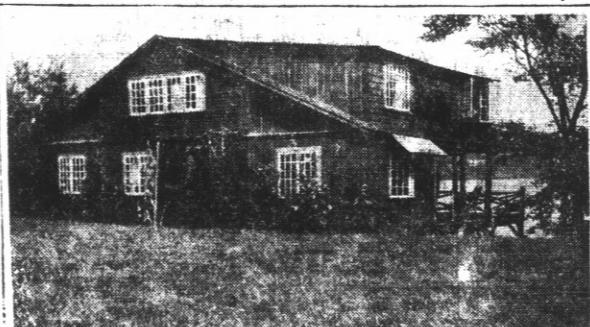

There were plenty of rocks back on the hill farms, so we sent a man to collect the biggest and flattest he could find and he brought back beauties, all smooth and well covered.

We picked out those that were to serve for the four corners, selecting a size that would raise the building just enough to leave an air space under it. The Canadian French are usually very poor builders, which I explained how I wanted the building raised and placed and went down the short end. The house was dismayed to find the stones all piled up higher than a house could settle itself so quietly into its surroundings. It was on the stones, to be sure, but the stones had been sunk into the ground! However, it looked so well sitting low that we left it there, and it has always stayed in place.

On the lake side, overhanging the water and supported by cedar posts, we built a wide porch level with the stones. We then took stones and piled it up so as to give a smaller porch on a level with the floor above, with an awning over the upper porch, where one might sleep out under the stars if one wished to.

Pour the butter-eggs-milk mixture into the mixing bowl and sift the dry ingredients into it, stirring carefully. When mixed and smooth, add the vanilla. Fill the greased muffin tins half full and bake in a moderate oven until done—about fifteen minutes depending upon the size of the cakes. With a spatula turn the baked cakes upon a serving platter and send them to the table, or cool upon a cake rack. At serving time place in a warm oven for five or ten minutes to heat through; do not, however, place them in too much heat. The dainty cup cakes will then become hard and tough.

The dining room was small but quite delightful. Its woodwork we stained a peacock blue. Some quaint Italian pottery I had picked up in Florence, Italy, was used in the dining room.

Nearly 600,000 tons of caustic soda where in a short time they amply repaid us for rescuing them: there were bush honeysuckles, wyegea, spira, rose and willow, whole hosts of lupines and pink ranunculus, rose and clematis to climb the cedar arch over our cottage door, and any amount of cedar trees dug from the fields, we soon had a bower of green about us.

Of course, when the house was finished we moved in promptly—with joy and congratulations for the originality of the house had become a definite summer home. There was no photographer about to take the "before" and "after" and we have only our small Kodak views which give but an inkling of its charm. By the way, the help and the work pictures given here can easily imagine that pretty and colorful little place.

When cooking macaroni use plenty of water. This is the secret of good macaroni. Don't forget to allow one tea-spoonful of salt to each quart of water.

For luncheon fry strips of bacon and remove to hot platter to keep crisp and hot. Dip slices of pineapple into flour (both sides) and brown in a little hot bacon fat. With this, serve crisp cold lettuce.

Baked bananas over which lemon juice has been squeezed are especially tasty served with baked meats, particularly with baked ham.

When your hands become stained with fruits while preserving, you can easily remove stains by rubbing with tomato juice.

Belgium's Problem

The general elections in Belgium have strengthened the group of Flemish Nationalists to such a degree that newspapers frankly talk about the state being in danger. M. Jaspal, the Prime Minister, also realizes the danger to national unity and he has solemnly declared that the first and most important task of his Administration will be to solve the language question. When King Albert was in exile on French soil during the war and Flemish soldiers were baiting him ironically on the Yser he promised the same thing. "Once the enemy has been driven out there will be equality for both races," said the King. The war came to a close and Belgian politicians resumed the old treatment of Flanders, forcing the French language upon the people in school and jurisprudence and official dealings. The result of this policy is there for all the world to see. A great people that made an important contribution to civilization has sunk to the level of the most backward races in Europe. The spectacle is without parallel in Western Europe. But these Flemings who have never taken much interest in politics, contenting themselves with local autonomy in their urban districts, are showing a desire for political action in the central Parliament of Brussels was a necessity. And no sooner have they begun such action than the central Government takes fright and makes another speech of peace. This time the Flemings will force the Government to keep its word. Next year Belgium commemorates the centenary of its independence. It has been a hundred years of oppression of the Flemings. The opinion of the French people is that the Flemings will be free again in that year. The Flemings get their freedom back. There is still hope, in the opinion of the Mayor of Antwerp, that it can be accomplished by amicable settlement while the nationalists declare that at this time has passed and a split-up is the only solution.

Diplomatic Success

The French Ambassador to Turkey, the Count of Chambrun—who is half American, by the way—has returned to his country, a signal success. On coming back he had received a very dry and maybe drier than the United States, being a Mohammedan country. Kemal Pasha, the President, though not quite orthodox, had never given the French Ambassador any thought. But the French Ambassador did. So he brought him to Ankara a few thousand samples of the finest French wines, gave a party at the embassy and invited the President of the Republic and the most prominent dignitaries of the land. The guests were invited to taste the samples from France. There was, perhaps, a moment's hesitation, but Kemal set the example. He clicked his tongue and said, "I can do this with pleasure and succulently." All the Turks present clicked their tongues. They asked for more. Mr. de Chambrun, assisted by butlers, Secretaries, Charge d'Affaires et al., kept on pouring out wine, bringing out the best. All at once Kemal began to recite appropriate quatrains from Omar Khayyam. The Foreign Minister quoted Cicero on "Friendship." The Minister of the Interior held forth on the "dignity of the Turk." The din and babel sounded like a Parliament in action. The session broke up by singing the "Marseillaise." Orders for wine from Turkey are pouring into France.

(Freezing with Commander Byrd in the Antarctic is none other than J. Herman Seiditz, explorer, sportsman and polar expert. Mr. Seiditz is contributing a series of articles to this paper, of which this is unfortunately not the last. J. Herman Seiditz needs no introduction to the American public as an intrepid explorer. He was a slowpoke in Trader Horn's whiskers when the latter blazed an aluminum ware route through darkest Africa. He accompanied Joan Lowell over the seven seas and Trudy Ederle through the English Channel. Just a ladies' man. He was the right hand man of Magellan when he discovered his straight and not only stayed, but raised Magellan five bucks on a four-flush. And this same J. Herman Seiditz is now interpreting the fruits of Byrd's Antarctic expedition for the paid-up subscribers of this paper. WITH BYRD IN THE ANTARCTIC

By J. Herman Seiditz

LITTLE AMERICA, July 4 (delayed by an open draw bridge)—While we folks in America are worrying about your two weeks' vacation, we in Little America are in the midst of winter. I tell you, the thermometer never rises on the American empire.

This morning the temperature was 120 degrees below zero. The Chamber of Commerce said this was very unusual and had not occurred before in forty years. As a rule, it is only 110 degrees below zero in the middle of winter here and the folks are quite upset when they figure this unusual cold spell will give the Antarctic Ocean a black eye.

The local weather is so chilly that the British Ambassador to Little America found his alcohol supply frozen stiff. He therefore declared his embassy dry until the spring thaw.

In retaliation for this, the American Ambassador refused to wear knee breeches to the British Ambassador's ball on the ground he was compelled to go to in his skin boots. This dogged little fellow was smoothed out when both Ambassadors decided to call it a winter and went to bed in fur-lined pajamas. They both set their alarm clocks for September, when spring will be here.

There is only one peculiarity I have noticed among the natives. They have a great fondness for tall candles and are always chewing them. I have nothing against this habit as it is much better than chewing tobacco, especially since they quit giving coupons with it.

When the natives snuff at tall candles every time they see one and eat them, they are in a hell of a fix when the local electric light plant breaks down.

The accident occurred at an intersection, where another car, driven by a young woman, collided with the Fox machine, which swerved and turned over in a ditch. The film producer was enroute from his Woodmere, L. I., home to New York when the collision occurred.

Saul Rosens, vice-president and chief counsel of the Fox Film corporation, was injured and his chauffeur was killed today in a motor car accident.

The condition of the screen magnate was not believed to be critical tonight. Attendants of the Nasau county hospital to which Fox was removed, said that although he had a hemorrhage and was cut about the head, he was suffering principally of shock.

Fox's chauffeur was Joseph W. Boyce. Also in the car was J. L. Rubenstein, textile man, who suffered minor injuries.

DESERT SONG HAS PLENTY OF FUN

Quite the most delightful comedy scenes in the history of the talking picture take place between Louise Fazenda and Johnny Arthur, the two funsters in the all-star cast in "The Desert Song," the Warner Brothers Vitaphone production which has made screen history as the first opportunity to be transferred to film in the country, and which may be seen on the screen of the Fox-California theater for the last time today.

The fair Louise, transformed into a ravishing blonde by means of a golden wig, plays the part of Susan, and Arthur is Benjamin Kild, an eccentric newspaper correspondent who is captured by a marauding Riff band under the leadership of the mysterious Red Shadow, and who is reduced to abject terror before he is finally released at harness. Subsequently Susan and Benji wander for two days over the desert mounted on a prostrating donkey which is only induced to move in a forward direction by a wisp of hay suspended a few inches in front of his nose.

Also on the program is a round cartoon, "When The Cats Away".

Captive Woman Shows Sills As One Of Finest

"Cops" are popular these days in pictures. First National recently presented Charlie Murray as a policeman in "Do Your Duty," and next Milton Sills will appear as a hardboiled member of Manhattan's finest in "His Captive Woman," which comes tomorrow to the Fox-California theater.

Dorothy Mackaill is co-featured as a girl who kills a man and flees to South America. The cops sent to bring her back dead or alive. He does so but before that, some exciting events take place.

This is a George Fitzmaurice production and was largely made in Hawaii. Also on this bill is a Fox talking News and an all-talking comedy "Old Times For New."

Hopes Held For Recovery Of V. L. Berger

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 17.—UP—A slight improvement in the condition of Victor L. Berger gave hope today that the veteran Socialist leader and former congressman might recover from serious injuries he suffered when he ran down last night by a street car.

At emergency hospital, where Berger was taken in an unconscious condition last night, physicians said he had rallied briefly from coma this morning but that his condition still was so serious that it was advisable to move him for an X-ray examination.

The three attending physicians said, however, there was a fractured skull fracture as well as internal injuries. Considering Berger's age, 69, the injuries were regarded as very serious.

The accident occurred in downtown Milwaukee when Berger was returning to the office of the leader of which he is editor. While crossing a street, he was run down by a street car. The motorman, Wilmer Roets, said the car was traveling slowly. He told officials that the editor apparently became confused in traffic and walked directly into its path.

BEWARE OF THE ITINERANT PEDDLER!

.. Turn A Deaf Ear to the High-Pressure Solicitor ..

Benefit Your Community—Your Merchant and Yourself

The net result of a purchase made from a "talking machine" salesman is much more far-reaching than the actual loss of profit to your local merchants.

Consider what becomes of the dollar you spend with the local merchant. Six cents of that dollar returns to the community and you in the form of taxes, which build your schools—improve your streets—and make your home surroundings more healthful and beautiful.

Not one cent of the dollars you spend with the "floating peddler" returns to you. He robs your community and enriches a distant city at your expense.

His guarantee is about as good as a will-o-the-wisp. Talk is cheap. All he cares about is one sale. Your local merchant has his reputation to consider and your patronage to hold. For your own benefit and the community's good, beware of the rapid-fire sales talk of these "floaters." House to house canvassing has been developed to a marked degree of high-pressure salesmanship. The same principles that the blue-sky stock salesman uses are employed. The first rule of the canvasser's book is not to let the prospect ask any questions, but to do all the talking himself.

When he talks about eliminating middlemen's profits, ask him what he is if not a middleman. Ask him, too, about a crew manager, district salesmanager, and zone supervisors under whom he works, and all of whom must get their bit.

Ask him what you are going to do if the merchandise proves unsatisfactory. Who is going to make good, he or his firm? If the firm, what assurance have you that they are not going to repudiate the claims on the very popular grounds that "The agent had no authority to make claims not specified and we cannot be expected to be held liable."

But, best of all, ask the agent or canvasser if you can take the goods offered and compare them with the same priced merchandise offered by your local merchant.

You lose doubly when you buy from the itinerant peddler. You always pay higher than the market price for the same grade of goods.

The merchandise you pay $2.00 for is usually $1.50 at your local merchant's regardless of what the agent may say about it.

Also you penalize the prosperity of the community, WHICH, IN THE END, IS YOUR PROSPERITY.

RICHMOND ELKS TO ENTER LOOP

The Richmond Elks meet the San Francisco Bills here Sunday afternoon at the First street diamond in the first game of the bay district "Elks" league. The Oakland Elks meet Alameda there.

The four teams compose the league. A series of nine games will be played and the winners will meet the Los Angeles district champion for the state title.

All players on the team must be members of the Elks lodge and must not have played in organized baseball before July this year.

The San Francisco team has been unable to secure a home ground, and as a result they may play all of their games here or in Alameda. The First street diamond has been offered to the bills by Manager George Shaw of the local team.

Alameda may also be able to provide the San Francisco team with a diamond at Neptune Park. George Shaw of Richmond is confident that the local team will finish high in the league. Shaw has lost the services of Jimmie Kogler, Richmond pitcher, whose physician has forbidden him to play ball this year. Kogler will probably start Sunday with Perrone and Blod in reserve.

LEGION NAMES JUNIOR GAME CITIES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 16.—With the selection of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the regional tournament of four middle western states, the playing centers of all state champion teams except four in the East, have been selected in the American Legion Junior Baseball World series, according to an announcement made by Dan Sowers, National director of the American Legion commission of the Legion, in charge of the program. A playing center for the states of New York, Connecticut, New Jersey and Rhode Island, will soon be decided on, Sowers said.

It has also been decided that the Eastern sectional tournaments of the Legion series will be played in Washington, D. C., August 20, 21 and 22. President Herbert Hoover has accepted an invitation to attend the opening game of this series which will be played in Griffith stadium, the American League park, according to Sowers. The Western sectional will be played in Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 28, 29 and 30.

Playing Center

Fort Wayne, the playing center for the boy champions of Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, is a city of more than 100,000 population located on the Maumee, St. Joseph, and St. Mary rivers and on seven state and national highways. It was at one time an Indian trading outpost but is now a thriving manufacturing city in the heart of a rich agricultural region. The dates of the Fort Wayne regional tournament are Aug. 13, and 14. Commercial and civic clubs will cooperate with the local legion in entertaining the visiting teams.

No-Hit, No-Run Game Pitched In Legion Series

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., July 17—Mickey Logue, a freckled faced typical American boy, is setting a fast pace in the American Legion's nation wide junior baseball competition. Pitching his first game in the Legion series here Mickey recently hurled a no-hit, no-run game that gave his team, the Lions, a 6 to 0 victory. Mickey came near repeating the performance in his next game. He hurled gilt edged baseball for six innings but in the seventh and last frame he allowed two hits, his team winning 7 to 2. Both were seven inning games.

In pitching a total of 13 consecutive innings without allowing a hit or a run, Logue has established a national record in the Legion play, it is believed here.

Incidentally the type of ball the team is playing is giving the Kilmer post of the Legion high hopes on annexing a few championships. "Great interest out here," Al Reisfield, athletic chairman, advises the Legion National headquarters. "Our team will ride along with potential possibilities."

In his no-hit, no run game the Legion's southpaw twirler came near recording a perfect exhibition. Only four managed to hit the ball at all and eighteen were retired on strikes. After a throw out at first in the initial inning, Mickey fanned fourteen batters in a row. In his second spectacular game Mickey was invincible for six innings, fanning ten batters and walking two. In the seventh he permitted a single followed by a double and successive sacrifices which permitted the other side to tally twice.

Solon Prexy Operated On In Chicago

CHICAGO, July 17.—UP—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American league baseball team, underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at Mercy hospital this afternoon.

Dr. Charles Sawyer, who performed the operation, reported that the Senators' chief was resting well after recovering from the anaesthetic.

Another shut out was accomplished by the Los Angeles Angels. They allowed the Oakland team only three hits and won by a score of 7 to 0.

Seattle beat the San Francisco Missions twice, the first game, which counts in the standings of the second half, going to the Indians by a score of 9 to 1 and the score of the second being 7 to 6.

Fire Trucks Aid Casting Of Vote

WARE, Mass.—To hold a town meeting in Ware, at least 100 voters must be present. Recently an insufficient number of citizens responded to the call for a meeting. So the chemical fire truck, with siren shrieking, was sent down Main street. Many persons, thinking there was a fire, raced after it, and when the truck reached the town hall, the meeting was held.

HONORED BY LEGION

CHICAGO, Ill.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, high commissioner of organized baseball, has been notified that the American Legion has conferred upon him its Distinguished Service Medal. The citation, of this highest award, which the Legion gives, sets forth the service of Landis to the organization since its very inception.

STATE STARTS PLANTING OF TROUT

Once more the fish cars operated by the Division of Fish and Game are on the road loaded with trout for the future happiness of California's huge army of anglers. According to announcement made here by W. H. Shebly, superintendent of the Fish Culture department, the first lot of 200,000 fry, running in size from one and one-half to two inches in length, have been shipped from the Mt. Shasta hatchery for planting in Donner lake and tributaries.

This lot was handled in Fish Car Number One, in charge of Donald Evans of the Fish Culture department, operating in close connection with the patrol forces of the Division of Fish and Game.

Incidentally the type of ball the team is playing is giving the Kilmer post of the Legion high hopes on annexing a few championships. "Great interest out here," Al Reisfield, athletic chairman, advises the Legion National headquarters.

In his no-hit, no run game the Legion's southpaw twirler came near recording a perfect exhibition. Only four managed to hit the ball at all and eighteen were retired on strikes. After a throw out at first in the initial inning, Mickey fanned fourteen batters in a row. In his second spectacular game Mickey was invincible for six innings, fanning ten batters and walking two. In the seventh he permitted a single followed by a double and successive sacrifices which permitted the other side to tally twice.

The second lot of fish in Fish Car Number Two, in charge of Ross McClelland, will be delivered at Martels in Amador county, for planting in the waters of southern Eldorado county. This lot will consist of 260,000 German Brown, Rainbow, Lochieven, and Eastern Brook trout fly. They will be delivered to Captain Jack O'Connell of the San Joaquin Amador patrol district, who, with Deputy W. J. Black, will supervise planting. Invaluable assistance will be rendered not only in these instances mentioned, but throughout the season, by members of Sportsmen's organizations in the localities mentioned. Connally officials, power company employees, and those employed by other companies operating near streams planted also give the fish and game forces excellent cooperation.

Fish mentioned in the above shipment are routed by Captain Lambson, who is in charge of the Mt. Shasta hatchery, after species and amounts are allotted by the police received by local police.

The former policeman is wanted here for murder of Joe Bustamante on Jan. 24.

Walker and four other officers surprised Bustamante and two companions in a local drug store, which they claim the trio was about to pilfer.

Bustamante and Manuel Garcia were killed instantly and Rudolph Valdez, third member of the trio, was wounded seriously by shots fired by the officers.

'WAR GAME' TO YOUNGEST IN OPEN IN NORTH WAR TO LAW

SEATTLE. Wash., July 17.—(UPI)—Between the woods-lined hills of Puget Sound, the Pacific sea forces of the nation came tonight to open a theoretical attack on the northwestern defenses.

In four forts among the hills, the land forces were mobilized to repel that assault in the greatest war-like maneuver this section has ever known.

Midnight was expected to be the zero hour, but the moment when the navy would strike was a closely guarded secret.

Ships Aid

Big battle craft and smaller vessels, destroyers, supply ships, ammunition ships and hospital ships, with airplanes and carriers, hovered off Port Angeles today awaiting the opening of the engagement.

In subterranean concrete lined rooms, soldiers stood ready to defend the shores against the fanatical attack of the combined sea forces of an European and an Asiatic nation.

For days they had been busy, working under ground in slipperies and stocking feet—for although the war was a game, the powder they handled was lethal.

Forts Manned

Military forces from California and the northwest, with national guardsmen from Washington and Oregon manned Forts Worden, Casey, Flaggier and Whitman.

The strength of these forts, admittedly obsolete, will be severely tested in the two day engagement.

The combat will continue until Friday night, when the umpires will ascertain whether Seattle and the Puget Sound were conquered by the invaders.

Captains Named

Col. L. C. Brown will be the chief umpire with the land forces and Capt. J. F. Klemann, U. S. N., will umpire the navy operations.

The battle will be waged without shell fire, salute charges being used by the navy and the outcome gauged by maneuvers.

But when the war is over, the coast defenses will fire great volleys of their munitions, withheld during the engagement, at targets in Puget Sound.

'HEIR' FACES SUPPORT COUNT

SAN RAFAEL. July 17.—(UPI)—A "fortune" that failed to develop as expected today brought its disappointed heir, a Santa Cruz fish washer, into court here on charges of failure to provide for a child.

Less than three weeks ago a local newspaper printed on its first page the picture of Jack Diamond Jarboe, with the story of his return to dish washing in a restaurant after a supposed $500,000 inheritance from a New York aunt faded away into a few dollars and then evaporated completely.

Miss Rose Burton, descendant of a pioneer California family, recognized the portrait and took it to the authorities.

"There is the father of my child," she claimed. "I want him arrested for failure to provide."

Miss Burton said that she had lived with Jarboe for two years under the impression that they were legally married. She learned she had been deceived, she said, after he deserted her, but she had continued to search for him to compel him to support the child.

RUSSIA, CHINA IN OPEN BREAK

There had been announcement of one note from China—in response to a three day Russian ultimatum—offering a species of negotiation regarding seizure of the railway. Though not satisfactory to Russia it had appeared that Russia was placated by it.

But the Russian note tonight revealed a second communication from China, evidently of strong tenor.

World Power Move

What action will follow is too early to tell. The Kellogg anti-war pact was formed to solve such situations without recourse to arms, and it was believed here that the world powers would lose no time in offering their services.

Great Britain was regarded as likely to lead the way. Ramsay MacDonald, British labor premier, is on the verge of offering to restore British-Russian diplomatic relations, severed now for two years. Any belligerent move by Russia would not only halt this intention, but would prove greatly embarrassing to MacDonald. As in the United States, many in Britain are opposed to any sort of relations with Russia.

Ugly Situation

From Russia's standpoint any strong action would seem likely to cause the post-war ring of hostile nations to form about her; and it was hoped here that some step would be taken, possibly today, to ameliorate but at the moment it is an ugly situation.

Both Russia and China are signatories of the Kellogg pact. Russia has shown every intention lately of building up good relations with nations that have espoused her communist leaders.

Russians, not only the government, but the people, were angered by the Chinese railway seizure and the arrest of any Russian officials. They regarded the move not as aimed really at Communist propaganda but against Russian participation in the railway administration—a purely diplomatic maneuver. Therefore it was hoped here that some action might be taken at once to prevent further misunderstanding and recrimination between the governments involved.

SOVIET UNION RECALLS OFFICIALS

MOSCOW, July 18 (Thursday)—The Soviet Union recalled all its diplomatic and consular representatives from China today as a result of China's seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria.

The Soviet also cut all railroad communications with China, and ordered expulsion of Chinese representatives in Russia.

The action was in reply to the Chinese foreign office's note which it is now declared rejected all Soviet proposals for settlement of the controversy growing out of the seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria.

The action of the Soviet government in no way mentions any intention of restoring to use of armed forces.

It was taken at a moment when the excitement of anti-Chinese demonstrations had died down in Moscow because the Soviet government had announced that China had made a "conciliatory" reply to the ultimatum sent to Nanking last week.

In connection with the drastic action today it was declared that the Chinese government, besides rejecting all Soviet proposals for a conference to settle the dispute, had justified the seizure of the railroad on the basis that it was responsible for Communist propaganda in Manchuria.

Russia Sees No HOPE FOR PEACE

BERLIN, July 18 (Thursday)—(UPI)—The Soviet's actions today in withdrawing diplomatic and trade representatives from China also informed the national government at Nanking that Russia intends to uphold all its claims to the Chinese Eastern railway in Manchuria.

It was learned from authoritative Soviet sources here that the Soviet Union has declared its intention of "taking all necessary measures" to protect its interests.

Notification of the Russia action was made to the Chinese charge d'affaires at Moscow at nine o'clock tonight.

After emphasizing that Russia will take all necessary action to protect its interests the note continued:

"The Nanking government in its last note confirms the confiscation of the Chinese Eastern railroad and rebuffed the efforts of the Soviet Union to inaugurate an understanding between the two peoples."

The note further declared that the Chinese government, in a second note, applied sharp criticism of the Soviet government's policy instead of occupying itself with Russia's three demands contained in the first note.

"The Chinese government accused the Soviet government of various machinations which are based on falsehoods," the Russian note complains.

"It is untrue," the Russian note continues, "that several thousand Chinese citizens in Moscow or in the Soviet Union have been arrested or are about to be arrested."

"The only Chinese citizens in Soviet prisons are those who have been sentenced by Soviet courts for ordinary crimes or smuggling."

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.

HEARING OF DOPE PLOT DELAYED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17.—(UPI)—Additional time for the justice and state departments at Washington to determine disposition of opium smuggling charges filed against three prominent Chinese here was announced in federal court here today.

Preliminary hearing of Ying Kao, vice consul here, his wife and Sue Foon, chancellor of the consulate, was postponed for five days.

Opium valued at approximately $500,000 was found in baggage brought here from the Orient by Mrs. Ying Kao.

The woman and two aides of the consul general here were arrested on charges of violating the Jones-Miller act and released on $10,000 bond each.

Influential Chinese interests requested that they be returned to China for trial. Dr. C. C. Wu, Chinese ambassador at Washington, ordered their recall. High executives at Washington will try to determine between now and Monday whether to grant the request for the return and drop the charges here or continue their present course.

All three have promised to return to China voluntarily before Aug. 5. A demand was made by Sue Foon today that his trial start immediately in order that no might prove his innocence here, but was denied.

Suicide Verdict In Winkler Death

That Edward Winkler, 52, 940 Thirteenth street, met his death by suicide was the verdict of a coroner's jury. The jury decided death was caused by asphyxiation with illuminating gas.

Winkler killed himself several days ago after a period of depression over illness and lack of work.

WATER DAMAGE SUITS WORRY PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, July 17.—Methods of payment for Pittsburg's $50,000 water damage suit were the cause of rifle arguments before the Pittsburg city council yesterday.

Councilmen attacked the opinion of City Attorney R. N. Wolfe who declared that he saw no way in which the city can force the property owners of additions recently annexed to the city to pay taxes toward the damages. Residents of the district annexed object to the tax levy on the grounds that they were not included in the city at the time Pittsburg became liable for the damages.

Three methods for paying off the damages were suggested to the council. The first is to increase the assessed valuation of the city sufficiently to secure money for the debt, the second is a bond issue to be voted upon by the people and the third calls for a bond issue authorized by the council. Definite action by the council is expected at its next meeting.
